

My soul is the part of me I least understand. Somewhat an illusive commodity... but I know this of my soul... "It believes". It believes in me, in you, in us, in the bond that we have embraced, and will continue throughout this life and whatever lies beyond.

My soul longs for something greater, is patient, is kind, not envy, not boastful, not proud, not rude, not self-seeking, not easily angered, keeps no record of wrongs, does not delight in evil, rejoices with the truth, always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres, never fails, and endures forever everlasting.

I'll forever love you... and this I vow to the end of time. All my love, for all your life.

Building Trust

Building and maintaining trust in a relationship is critical for it to succeed. Without trust, a couple has nothing meaningful to build a future on together. Trust is the foundation on which true love thrives. There are several ways in which to build trust in relationships.

First, trust is built on consistency. It is important for a couple to be consistent in both their verbal and non-verbal communication. For example if a person says that they will do something and usually does it, that is a form of verbal consistency. If a person can rely on the consistency of another person, trusting feelings grow between the two people. With respect to non-verbal communication, much the same thing applies. If a person looks at their loved one a certain loving way, and continues to, trust evolves. Also, if a person usually holds their boyfriend or girlfriend's hand while walking together, trust grows.

Another way to build trust is for a person to exercise being a good listener. When your loved one is talking to you about something that is important to them and you are genuinely listening to them, trust grows. People feel important and appreciated when their loved one takes the time to listen to them. Nobody wants to feel that they are talking to someone who is either not listening or does not care about what they have to say.

Finally, a couple builds trust through building deeper levels of communication with their significant other. Surface talk can only go so far before a person needs more to establish a certain level of trust. For example, it is the difference between a couple talking Courtship is the process of selecting and attracting a mate.

It is governed by a complex set of unwritten rules that are loosely defined as etiquette. Such rules dictate where, when, with whom and in what manner we all attract the opposite sex. We generally obey these unofficial rules by instinct but we also only become aware of the rules when someone commits a breach of them.

Online Advertising for Dating Services

Companies offering dating services are investing increasing amounts in advertising, according to a new study, with online advertising seeing particular growth.

Research carried out by Nielsen Monitor-Plus found that such firms in the US, in particular online dating sites, spent $127.3 million advertising online in 2006. This is up from $88.9 million spent the previous year and the second highest area of investment for dating services. Of the 12 dating services firms advertising online, seven companies were "almost exclusively using the internet for advertising", the report found.

The top ten dating services firms accounted for 96 per cent of the total advertising spend for the industry, some $290 million of $302 million.

It only makes sense to advertise your Dating Site online and it's even more important if your site is new in the industry.

about the weather together, compared to talking about how each other feel about the meaning of love. One thing is shallow talk while the other is deeper talk. It is the depth of conversation that develops a strong bond and trust. People need to take a chance in establishing a deeper level of communication with their loved one. If they do this, they will experience the truest and deepest form of love and trust. When love is built on trust it almost guarantees that the relationship will work. Trust is that special ingredient from which all good loving things grow.

Sometimes it is difficult to trust when some negative past experiences has hurt you. In such cases a person needs to make an effort to not carry forward past hurtful feelings and associations into their current relationship. To not bring negative emotional baggage from one relationship into another is often easier said than done. Sometimes it just takes time to heal the hurts of the past. Also, past negative experiences or associations need to be replaced by positive ones. Again, time is the magic factor in this sort of healing process. Good things come to those who make an effort to build trust in their lives. Trust is the key to many forms of happiness in life.

Dating or courtship is the process of choosing and attracting a mate for companionship, sex, marriage and/or sexual reproduction. It is also the pre-arranged meeting (exclusive) of two people with mutual interest in one another to communicate with and to comprehend through shared participation in social activities. According to western tradition, a date is an occasion when one socializes with a potential lover or spouse for the purpose of being deeply acquainted with each other as also to come to an understanding whether they wish to have a purposeful relationship.

Though dating was generally sponsored through friends or relatives, the Second World War diminished such opportunities to a great extent, giving rise to commercial dating agencies. Newspapers and magazine ads contributed to the cause too. However, post-Internet days have brought a sea change in dating and mate-finding anonymously. Online dating services today provide unlimited dating extravaganza on the monitor without any commitment tagged to it. Ladies and men can now tap the online resources with the click of a mouse and carry on love duels without disclosing identity. Though this online intimacy can be instantly arousing, yet its pitfalls are of concern since none of the parties can ever guess an inch of the other's inner life or face read either of them. However, the world becoming more and more full of 'singles', online dating gives the opportunity to know more and more people and even find a life partner.
