

My soul is the part of me I least understand. Somewhat an illusive commodity... but I know this of my soul... "It believes". It believes in me, in you, in us, in the bond that we have embraced, and will continue throughout this life and whatever lies beyond.

My soul longs for something greater, is patient, is kind, not envy, not boastful, not proud, not rude, not self-seeking, not easily angered, keeps no record of wrongs, does not delight in evil, rejoices with the truth, always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres, never fails, and endures forever everlasting.

I'll forever love you... and this I vow to the end of time. All my love, for all your life.

Fantasy vs. Logical Relationship

More than any other environment, it is critically important to leave your rose-colored glasses off when using the online dating environment. As you scroll through the hundreds of gorgeous profiles on the online dating sites, it's hard not to get caught up in the fantasy, or even logic of it all. The profiles have the most flattering picture to draw you in. The write up reads well and before you know it you are communicating with your dream gal: Tall, curvaceous, blonde likes live music, outdoors and cooking. Sounds like the perfect girl? She just might be if you like acoustic and Celtic music and meditating outdoors. And her height – she's the tallest one in her entire family, standing at a whopping 5'5 which makes her curves outwardly curvy. How one writes their profile is not always how it is interpreted. A lot of the information, especially descriptive information is relative to the person writing it and the person reading it.

In order to break through the fantasy of the profile you must use logic. Read the profile in full, several times. Make sure everything adds up. Do they say they love to travel, yet their posted annual income is less than $25,000? Yes, it's possible they do travel on a tight budget, but realistically their "travel" might consist of exploring a new county within the state – which technically is considered travel.

If you find something within the profile that doesn't add up, don't be afraid to ask them about it. In the example of the travel, you could ask when the last time they traveled was and where they went. Questioning in this manner is more of a conversation and they won't realize that you are actually cross

Courtship is the process of selecting and attracting a mate.

It is governed by a complex set of unwritten rules that are loosely defined as etiquette. Such rules dictate where, when, with whom and in what manner we all attract the opposite sex. We generally obey these unofficial rules by instinct but we also only become aware of the rules when someone commits a breach of them.

Online Advertising for Dating Services

Companies offering dating services are investing increasing amounts in advertising, according to a new study, with online advertising seeing particular growth.

Research carried out by Nielsen Monitor-Plus found that such firms in the US, in particular online dating sites, spent $127.3 million advertising online in 2006. This is up from $88.9 million spent the previous year and the second highest area of investment for dating services. Of the 12 dating services firms advertising online, seven companies were "almost exclusively using the internet for advertising", the report found.

The top ten dating services firms accounted for 96 per cent of the total advertising spend for the industry, some $290 million of $302 million.

It only makes sense to advertise your Dating Site online and it's even more important if your site is new in the industry.

checking their reality with their profile. If you ask them in a more blunt and upfront manner, chances are they will go on the defensive and that's not a good starting basis.

Just as you find the fantasy v. reality while you are looking through other people's profiles, it's just as important to make sure your profile doesn't have the fantasy factor too heavily played. While it is important to use your best photos and have a well written profile, you do not want to go overboard and exaggerate areas. Yes, your profile is an advertisement to market yourself, but you aren't looking for a quick sell, you are looking for a long-term investor.

To keep the fantasy from taking over, keep the communication open. Ask questions, clarify the answers. Make sure what you are being told is what you understand. If you don't clarify, you will only start to make your own conclusions which leads to fantasy, which eventually could lead to some pretty hefty disappointment when faced with the reality.

Dating or courtship is the process of choosing and attracting a mate for companionship, sex, marriage and/or sexual reproduction. It is also the pre-arranged meeting (exclusive) of two people with mutual interest in one another to communicate with and to comprehend through shared participation in social activities. According to western tradition, a date is an occasion when one socializes with a potential lover or spouse for the purpose of being deeply acquainted with each other as also to come to an understanding whether they wish to have a purposeful relationship.

Though dating was generally sponsored through friends or relatives, the Second World War diminished such opportunities to a great extent, giving rise to commercial dating agencies. Newspapers and magazine ads contributed to the cause too. However, post-Internet days have brought a sea change in dating and mate-finding anonymously. Online dating services today provide unlimited dating extravaganza on the monitor without any commitment tagged to it. Ladies and men can now tap the online resources with the click of a mouse and carry on love duels without disclosing identity. Though this online intimacy can be instantly arousing, yet its pitfalls are of concern since none of the parties can ever guess an inch of the other's inner life or face read either of them. However, the world becoming more and more full of 'singles', online dating gives the opportunity to know more and more people and even find a life partner.
